2nd World Summit on Ethics & Leadership in Sports

- Press release -

WFEB organizes 2nd World Summit on Ethics and Leadership in Sports at the Home of FIFA on 16th September 2016

The ongoing doping scandal and overall pressing governance challenges in sports to highlight the agenda in what is expected to be a heated debate to preserve the original values of sports

Zurich, 23rd August 2016 – Leading decision-makers from sports, politics, business, academics and NGOs will for the second time converge at the Home of FIFA in Zurich to define the role of sports in society and to celebrate best practice examples of ethical sportsmanship. Organized by the World Forum for Ethics in Business, this multi-stakeholder platform will elaborate on what business and politics can learn from sports, showcase successful CSR activities in the sports arena and assess and address current challenges in sports ethics. Themed “Preserving the beauty of Sports and leveraging its full potential for society”, the summit will feature a mix of keynote addresses and dedicated breakout sessions to enrich participants’ overall knowledge and experience and propose a substantial agenda for action.

‘Given the immense importance sports have gained in today’s society, a focus on true sportsmanship and the discussion on ethics in sports have become more relevant than ever’, says Rajita Kulkarni, President of the World Forum for Ethics in Business.

‘In today’s world, sport holds an important influence and has the power to promote key ethical values and tackle social problems. To realize its true potential, we must preserve its integrity and beauty’, adds Wilfried Lemke, Special Adviser to UN Secretary-General on Sport for Development and Peace and confirmed keynote speaker at the Summit.

The Summit will feature a line-up of world-class speakers and allow participants to leverage from global knowledge and experience to invoke thought-provoking discussions and exchange of ideas. FIFA President Gianni Infantino will welcome the summit participants in the Home of FIFA. Ms. Fatma Samoura, FIFA’s new Secretary General is scheduled to deliver a key-note speech.

Amongst the highlights will be a panel discussion on anti-corruption led by WADA doping investigator Prof. Richard McLaren as well as a dedicated discussion on current burning sports governance challenges featuring Hans-Joachim Eckert, Chairman of the adjudicatory chamber of the independent FIFA Ethics Committee. A number of issue-based, action-oriented workshops will invite for in-depth debates and analyses on topics such as human rights at events, the cost of success and the role of digital and other media to promote ethics in sports.
